Baronial Court Report from Bhakail Yule Revel

On the 9th of December, late in the afternoon when the heavy mists of the morning had burned away, Baron Muin maqq Minain, in the fourth year of His reign, in the fifty-eighth year as these things are counted, and also reckoned as the 2023rd year of the common era, and in the company of King Matthias and Queen Feilinn, and the Princes Tindal and Emerson, held Court upon His seat in the Barony of Bhakail at the celebration of the Yuletide holidays.

His Excellency began by making a presentation of gifts of largess to Their Majesties and Their Highnesses, and in His turn received gifts from The Crown and Their Heirs.

He next called for His Arts and Sciences Champion, Katrein Topffer, and thanked her for the service of her tenure, and accepted from her the regalia of the appointment, and gave unto her his personal token of gratitude, and bade her once again take her place among the populace.

His herald then summoned the Honorable Lady Scolastica Capellaria. He praised her presentation of varied works as a lady of station in the lands of Germany and asked if she would, in good faith, serve as His new Champion of Arts and Sciences. Her answer given in the affirmative, her appointment was confirmed in a scroll crafted by Sabina Coffyn.

Baron Muin called for His Brewing Champion, Lord Aiden Underhill, and offered words of thanks and His personal token in appreciation of the service offered by the same Aiden. From him His Excellency took back the regalia of that Champion and he was set back among the populace.

At that time, Lui Wing-Ken was called forth and asked to present himself to His Excellency. Baron Muin praised his offering of sake, its dryness, its smoothness, and proclaimed it among the best of such beverages he had had the good fortune to enjoy. Lui Wing-Ken was offered a place in His Excellency's Court as His Brewing Champion, and this was noted in a document illuminated by Finnólfur Hrafnsson, and calligraphed by Lady Margarette la Gantiere, with words written by the Honorable Lady Solveig Bjarnardottir.

Baron Muin then called forth all those newcomers who were visiting His Barony for the first time, and offered them tokens of appreciation, and bade them return and enjoy His lands and His hospitality as they each were able.

Armingier Motte Nachfalter was called forth and He offered words of appreciation to them that they had organized a festivity involving swapping stockings filled with gifts on this day of celebration and to them conferred a Flame of Bhakail, the Barony's service token.

He not being finished with their attendance, Baron Muin then summoned his Order of the Pasgarde, the Barony's Order for recognition of skill in armored combat. He praised Motte's leadership as the Barony's armored combat marshal, and their greatly improving skill upon the listfield, and confirmed upon them that same Order. This act was recorded in perpetuity by a document illuminated and calligraphed by Lady Margarette la Gantiere, with words penned by Lord Montgomery Josh.

His Excellency next summoned Master Malcolm Bowman and, with much appreciation for his assistance in keeping rapier practice happening in the Barony while our rapier marshal was ill, gifted him with the Flame of Bhakail, a service token.

Next, His herald called Lady Adelina de Verrieres to attend the Baron. He spoke of her obvious joy and enthusiasm when in the fencing lists, and her skill therein, and He summoned his Order of the Flame and Salamander, the Barony's recognition for skill in rapier combat, and named her a Companion of that Order. This was recorded in a document crafted by Dame Ysmay de Lynn.

Baron Muin then summoned His event stewards for the day, the Honorable Lady Scolastica Capellaria and Baroness Mari Clock van Hoorne, and in recognition of their excellent work, presented them each with the Flame of Bhakail service token.

The Honorable Lady Lu An Hua, the day's chef, who had presented a filling and delicious dayboard of dishes from four regions in China, was then called to attend His Excellency, who gave to her the Flame of Bhakail.

He then requested the attendance of the Admiral of Bhakail's Navy, Doña Jacqueline Cross. He praised her long and valued service to the Barony and released her with his thanks to sail under her own flag. She was gifted a bag of gold coins in payment for service given and her retirement noted in a document illuminated and calligraphed by Lady Margarete la Gantiere, with words written by Baron Muin maqq Minain himself.

His business with His Champions and His populace at that time finished, Baron Muin concluded His Court with thanks and appreciation to all those who attended, and all those who served and made it such that the day was filled with friendship and merriment. At that time, with no further actions pending, Their Majesties King Matthias and Queen Feilinn opened Their own Court.

These are the events as I recall them, and so I recorded them as such and present this recitation to you.

Waaugghh, Bhakail!!

And so I remain,

- Rowen, Red Lozenge Herald Extraordinaire
